WHAT GOD MADE

Of all the books I've read,
I like the Bible and what God said,
To love others every day,
And show your love in every way.

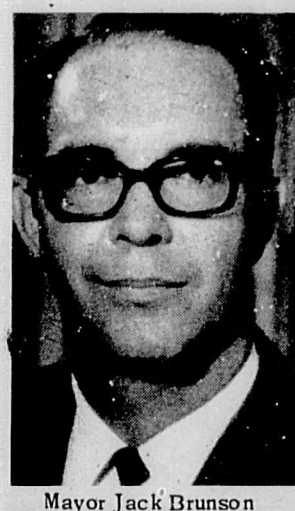

The Bible is the best book I know,
It tells of things long ago,
It tells me things I should do,
How God loves me and God loves you.

God made me God made you,
God made the sky so blue,
God made spring showers,
God also made spring flowers.

God made the winds blow,
God made the flowers grow,
God made Grandmas,
God also made Grandpas.

TIME SHORT FOR CLEARING STORM DAMAGE FREE IN ELBA

Mayor Jack Brunson

Following the June 5 City of Elba Council meeting, Mayor Jack Brunson released the following statements:

"The Council is grateful for the consideration, patience, and cooperation of the citizens of Elba during the undertaking of the tremendous task of disposing of the trash following the tornado of April 18. Except in some isolated cases this job has been completed.

Our City and Water and Electric employees, plus others who have helped with labor equipment, etc. deserve a word of 'thanks' from all the citizens of Elba for the many long hours of work necessary to recover from the damage to the city. We encourage all citizens to express their appreciation to these workers who are often criticized but seldom praised.

Effectively July 1, 1973, the City will resume making a charge for picking up trash. This charge is based on the time and equipment required to pick up trash in excess of the allotted two cubic yards. The allotted two cubic yards for homes may not include building materials or construction waste. Homeowners can reduce the amount charged for excess trash by stacking limbs and separating limbs, leaves, etc. so the trash can be picked up in the least possible time.

The general procedure to be followed in the case of excess trash will be to notify the homeowner that the amount of trash is excessive and ask him to notify City Hall if he wants the City to pick it up. If he contacts City Hall, a man will come by and give an estimate of the charges for the excess trash. No charge is made for the allotted two cubic yards. The homeowner can either authorize him to pick it up or has the option of hauling it off himself. However, none of the trash will be moved while the excess remains.

If you have limbs, resulting from the tornado, which are ready for pick-up, please call the City Hall before noon on June 23 and report the location. These limbs will be picked up before July 1. Please remember there will be a charge for picking up trash in excess of the allotted two cubic yards after July 1.

COLORED BACKGROUND

POOR ORIGINAL

REV. EDWIN K. SELLS

Mirrors are rather fascinating objects. The water was man's first primitive mirror. It may have been incentive to the women of long ago who carried the heavy water jars from the fountain to know that on their reaching home they could pour some of the water into shallow pans and bending over see themselves. It may be from this water - mirror man first conceived himself as being a soul. When he moved - if he mimicked the expression of his face. He reached out to touch the man and all he could touch was water. Perhaps, he formed the idea that this was something that he could not see but not feel. However, our deepest concept of the spiritual life and the Spirit today is that it cannot always be seen but can be felt.

There is another natural mirror. Stand close to your friend. Look him squarely in the eye. In the pupil of a man's eye "face to face answers". You do not get a life sized image of yourself in the eye of the friend, but you are conscious that he has a life-sized image of you. You see yourself made diminutive, he sees you exactly as you are.

Then there is the mirror of the heart. Love fixes that image. It is very interesting to study hearts for the images they show. Try an experiment. Look into the eyes of your friend and see the image of yourself; then look into the eyes of a baby. The brighter eye of the little child gives the better reflection. Both the imperfections and the perfections of your countenance appear more clearly in the eyes of the child. There is a difference in the clearness of eyes. And so there is a difference in our hearts. The kind of reflection we give depends upon the purity found in one's heart. We know there is only one perfect heart, unspotted, unstained without mar or blemish - the heart of Christ. In His heart we see the perfect image of what we can be by this forgiveness and grace. Selfishness appears in self - sacrificing love. Fault is seen in perfection. Sin is seen in contrast with sinlessness. One's

A Theory About Cell Chemistry

How can some cells in the human body change their chemical output according to the body's needs? Why are some bacteria able to live on any of several different food sources? How does any cell regulate its own internal chemistry?

A mass of experimental observations on this subject had been puzzling scientists for years. Then, in 1961, two French scientists announced a comprehensive theory to explain the data.

When the two men did their work, this much was already known: The cell's genes, made up of a chemical called DNA, contain the codes for the structures of various proteins, and other machinery exists in the cell to read the codes and produce the proteins. These proteins, which are special ones called enzymes, then initiate the cell's chemical reactions with its environment. The question in 1961 was, how does the cell regulate the quantity of each enzyme it produces?

The two scientists, Francois Jacob and Jacques Monod, put forward the idea that some of the genes had regulatory, rather than productive functions. These genes code for special products that can stimulate or inhibit the machinery for enzyme production. Jacob and Monod indicated that a separate regulatory system like this may exist for each enzyme produced by the cell.

So important were the implications of this theory, and so rapidly was it confirmed by others, that the two scientists were awarded the Nobel Prize a mere four years later.

At The Salk Institute, in San Diego, as at other research institutions, this line of work is being pursued now in greater detail. Dr. Suzanne Bourgeois, of the Institute is working with Monod and others on studies of the regulation of enzyme production in a common bacterium.

Although most of the work on regulatory genes has been restricted to a few bacterial and virus systems, the available evidence on higher organisms indicates that their cells follow the same general pattern. In fact, the model offers an explanation of the apparent differences among the many cells in one organism. By this model, all the cells in one organism have the same complete set of genes and differ from one another only in which genes are inhibited and which are expressed.

So important were the implications of this theory, and so rapidly was it confirmed by others, that the two scientists were awarded the Nobel Prize a mere four years later.

Appointed Executive Department Heads Should Be Reconfirmed Every 4 Years

Under Article II, Section 2 of the Constitution of the United States, the heads of the executive departments of the Federal government are appointed by the President subject to confirmation by the Senate. Since the department heads then serve at the pleasure of the President, once confirmed they may disregard their responsibilities to the people's elected representatives and the people themselves so long as they satisfy the President.

Whether the Administration is headed by a Republican or a Democrat, responsible government demands that these appointed officers be required to face an evaluation of their performance by Congress every four years in the form of reconfirmation proceedings.

For this reason, I have joined Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia in sponsoring legislation which would correct this situation.

I am convinced that this bill would do much to restore the balance of power between the people's elected representatives and the people themselves so long as they satisfy the President.

Summer Jobs Can Affect Social Security Payments

Earnings from summer jobs can affect the monthly payments of students and other young people who get benefits from social security, according to a social security official here.

Over 4 million young people under 22 get monthly social security payments as children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers, a social security spokesman said. "Many of them will spend the summer school vacation working. In some cases, this work and earnings will affect their social security benefits."

The amount young people earn at summer or part-time jobs will cause a reduction in their social security payments if their total earnings for the year are more than $1,680, according to the spokesman. "But even if they earn over $1,680, they can get their social security payments for any month in which they neither earn more than $140 nor perform substantial services in self-employment," he said.

Most young people won't earn over $1,680 from a summer vacation job, the spokesman noted. "But if they also work part time during the year, they can easily earn over $1,680 during 1972," he said. "If you get social security benefits and earn over $1,680 in a year, $1 in social security benefits is withheld for every $2 you earn from $1,680 up to $2,880. For every $1 you earn over $2,880, $1 in social security benefits is withheld for every $1 earned, according to the spokesman.

Summer workers and other young people who get social security benefits and who know their earnings for this year will go over $1,680 should notify social security as soon as possible," he said. "Refunding overpayments to social security at the end of the year can sometimes create a financial hardship."

Young people with questions about earnings and social security payments can call the office in which they perform substantial services in self-employment," he said.

Most young people won't earn over $1,680 from a summer vacation job, the spokesman noted. "But if they also

Senator Sparkman Answers Questions

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: There is some legislation pending in Congress to furnish support for detection and treatment of diabetes, as well as research for a possible cure for this dreadful and insidious disease. I feel sure that you will support this legislation because this is the kind of thing you have been supporting all along. I will appreciate whatever you can do to help. J.C. Decatur

SPARKMAN: The bill you have in mind, H.R. 4882, is now pending before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. I have asked that my name be added as a co-sponsor of this legislation, and you may be assured that I have my full support.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I read recently where you and Senator Allen are supporting a Manpower Project to train 25 medical technicians. I was shocked to read of this and I ask you to reconsider your position on this matter. K.S.

SPARKMAN: Let me explain to you that the project which was announced was financed through one of the administrative agencies of the government. Neither Senator Allen nor I selected the project or specified its nature. However, I am advised by medical experts that there is a definite shortage of medical technicians throughout the country.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I believe that you will receive help in the form of increased benefits from this program shortly. The HEW Secretary announced plans on May 30 for implementing the new $4.8 billion cash assistance program for an estimated 6.2 million aged, blind and disabled people beginning January 1, 1974. This program, PL 92-603 commonly known as H.R. 1, received my full support. It follows the Congressional mandate for strong State-Federal partnership guaranteeing in important options to the states of our two those persons freeing in about half the states, including Alabama. Of course, while making the basic assistance payments of $100 to the aged, blind and disabled becomes the responsibility of the Federal Government, the states are free to supplement that amount.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I have been reading about the Latin American trip by the Secretary of the State. Can you let me know what, if any, progress he may have made on the Panama Canal problem?

SPARKMAN: The General Services Administration (GSA) and the Department of Defense (DOD) are the principal government agencies selling surplus personal property. As items, including construction equipment, become available for sale, catalogs are distributed to persons on the mailing lists who have expressed an interest in purchasing the types of property being offered. Sales are by competitive bid. If you wish to receive catalogs of surplus equipment, as well as invitations to bid on such equipment, you may do so by writing Mr. Allan G. Kaufman, Assistant Administrator, General Services Administration, Washington, D.C. 20405.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: Last fall, Congress passed a bill that would help retired folks like my husband and me who are living on a very limited Social Security payment program. With the price of food and other expenses going up every day, when can we expect some relief in the form of increased benefits from this Social Security Act? M.S.

SPARKMAN: The bill you have in mind, H.R. 4882, is now pending before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. I have asked that my name be added as a co-sponsor of this legislation, and you may be assured that I have my full support.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I read recently where you and Senator Allen are supporting a Manpower Project to train 25 medical technicians. I was shocked to read of this and I ask you to reconsider your position on this matter. K.S.

SPARKMAN: Let me explain to you that the project which was announced was financed through one of the administrative agencies of the government. Neither Senator Allen nor I selected the project or specified its nature. However, I am advised by medical experts that there is a definite shortage of medical technicians throughout the country.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I believe that you will receive help in the form of increased benefits from this program shortly. The HEW Secretary announced plans on May 30 for implementing the new $4.8 billion cash assistance program for an estimated 6.2 million aged, blind and disabled people beginning January 1, 1974. This program, PL 92-603 commonly known as H.R. 1, received my full support. It follows the Congressional mandate for strong State-Federal partnership guaranteeing in important options to the states

ing in about half the states, including Alabama. Of course, while making the basic assistance payments of $100 to the aged, blind and disabled becomes the responsibility of the Federal Government, the states are free to supplement that amount.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I have been reading about the Latin American trip by the Secretary of the State. Can you let me know what, if any, progress he may have made on the Panama Canal problem?

SPARKMAN: The General Services Administration (GSA) and the Department of Defense (DOD) are the principal government agencies selling surplus personal property. As items, including construction equipment, become available for sale, catalogs are distributed to persons on the mailing lists who have expressed an interest in purchasing the types of property being offered. Sales are by competitive bid. If you wish to receive catalogs of surplus equipment, as well as invitations to bid on such equipment, you may do so by writing Mr. Allan G. Kaufman, Assistant Administrator, General Services Administration, Washington, D.C. 20405.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: Last fall, Congress passed a bill that would help retired folks like my husband and me who are living on a very limited Social Security payment program. With the price of food and other expenses going up every day, when can we expect some relief in the form of increased benefits from this Social Security Act? M.S.

providing cash and support services to those in need. It will make 3.8 million people eligible for cash payments, increase State - Federal outlays in Fiscal 1974 by $800 million, and increase the Federal share $1.7 billion, while freeing up to $600 million which would otherwise spend on current programs. Basic payments by the Federal Government will increase to $130 per month to an individual, and $195 per couple. These payments will be higher than those currently provided.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: Could you please furnish me with addresses and any other information pertaining to the sale of surplus equipment by the U.S. Government due to the U.S. cease fire in Vietnam? I am especially interested in several types of equipment used in the construction industry.

Lee Hamm Awarded Comer Medal

Lotus Lee Hamm III, a graduating senior in the pre-medical curriculum, has been chosen as the 1973 recipient for the Comer Medal for Excellence in Natural Science in the Physical Science field.

In 1923 this medal was established by former Governor B. B. Comer. It was to be given to the student with the best examination or the best class record in the branch of natural science. Since 1970 a Comer Medal has been awarded to the Outstanding Student in each of the Physical Science and Biological Science fields.

Mr. Hamm has a 2.97 grade point average out of a possible 3.00, accumulated in eight quarters at Auburn and one at the University of Alabama in Huntsville. He is graduating after being in college ten quarters; and will pursue a medical career at the University of Alabama in Birmingham.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hamm, Jr. of Decatur; grandparents are Mrs. L. L. Hamm, Sr., and the late Mr. L. L. Hamm, Sr.; and Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Miles, all of Elba.

SPECIAL INTEREST MEETING
A "Meat Selection" demonstration by Dr. Billy Powell, Marketing Specialist, Auburn University, will be held today, June 14, 2:00 - 4:00 p.m. The program is open to anyone who wishes to attend. It will be held at the new Farm Center which is located between Enterprise and New Brockton.

Please make your plans to attend and bring someone with you. The demonstration is free of charge.

JUICY MEAT
Everyone likes tender, juicy meat, but not every cut of meat is tender.

Long, slow cooking is a sure way of getting meat tender. You can braise the less tender cuts or simmer them for stew, meat pies, etc. Or you can pound meat with a mallet or mallet to break the fibers and make it cook more tender.

Many homemakers like to cook meat quickly or use dry heat methods like broiling or roasting. Commercial tenderizers make this possible with less tender cuts of meat.

Tenderizer is applied to the meat, which is then punched with holes so the tenderizer can penetrate. Tenderizer is made from a natural enzyme from other papaya plants, fresh pineapple or figs.

Medicare Aid
For Kidney Diseased
A recent amendment to the social security law is of special interest to those who are facing the high cost of treatment for a kidney ailment. Ted A. Gamble, manager of the Dothan Social Security Office said that some folks who need continual hemodialysis treatment for kidney disease, or require a kidney transplant, can possibly get some help towards the cost from Medicare.

The basic requirement for Medicare help is that you must have worked long enough under social security to be insured. If you have, not only you but your wife or husband or dependent children would be eligible for assistance under the program. Unlike other Medicare benefits you don't have to be age 65 to get this help.

Benefits can be paid under this program beginning July 1, 1973.

SPORTS

with JOHNNY MARTIN

How about this horse by the name of Secretariat? His win in Saturday's Belmont Stakes made him the first Triple Crown winner in 25 years. He broke the track record in the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmont Stakes, winning by 31 lengths in the latter. He has already been syndicated for $6.08 million for breeding purposes, which is bound to be another record. For the first time in the history of horse racing, there is common agreement on the best horse in the history of the sport. And it is certainly a year to be remembered by Mrs. John T. Weir, whose pocketbook was certainly padded by her champ. Elsewhere in professional sports this week, let's turn to baseball and a surprising team of Milwaukee Brewers. Notably, Dave Del Cramello's nameless chance in the American League East Division, but at present they are just two games behind the division-leading New York Yankees.

It would be an understatement to say that Tom Weiskopf is the hottest golfer on the professional golf tour at present. The State has won three of the last four tournaments he has played going into this week's U.S. Open at Oakland in Pittsburgh. But let's not go so far as to say that Weiskopf is given the favorite's role in the Open. Jack Nicklaus seemed to be satisfied with his game last week in Philadelphia, which is what amounts to a warning to the other four players. I'll take the Golden Bear, if you want Weiskopf, Trevino, Palmer, or anyone.

On the local golf scene, Ken Martin shot 80 to win first place in the Elba Country Club Junior Tournament last Tuesday. David Smith clipped the cadets came back for a fast heat and Money's No. 75 was behind him the the feature and it was Young again in this one. It was second with Skipper third and Tindall fourth.

The cadet cars ran the black flag with Hassler leading from the start to win. Barron came in second with Money third and Wood fourth.

Racing will resume this Saturday with the gates opening at 6:30, qualifying at 7:30 and race time 8:30 o'clock.

Young Wins At Rocket Speedway

Not only did Jackie Young's No. 13 win the late model feature event at Rocket Speedway Saturday night, but it also took the checkered flag in three other events.

Young had little trouble in winning the four events he entered with the only real sweat of the last heat when he won on time the lead on one first lap and he wasn't to be headed for the win. Jim Hassler in No. 88 was second with Bill Taylor's No. 8 third and Donald Taylor's No. 87 fourth.

Young got his second win of the night in the fast heat, winning on the last lap. Fisher led throughout the race, but finished second. Skipper was third and Tindall fourth.

The cadet feature was won by Richard Redmon of Marianna as he had car troubles earlier in the night. The only race Redmon's No. 66 finished was the feature, but he got running in that one to win by two lengths over Money's 75. Rufus Barron was third with David Wood fourth.

COFFEE COUNTY

BY TOM CASADAY, COUNTY EXTENSION CHAIRMAN

"Research You Can Use Today" will be the theme of the Twelfth Auburn Forestry Forum at Auburn University on Wednesday and Thursday, June 20-21.

"Research dissemination is important to the forestry profession," says Thomas C. Casaday, County Extension Chairman. The Forum is scheduled for the All-American Inn adjacent to the University Campus.

Auburn University staff members taking part in the program are Ralph R. Jones, W. B. DeVal, James A. Buford, Robert L. Halle and Larkin Wade.

The annual bill for forestry research is in the hundreds of millions of dollars. The Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture alone expends approximately $60 million in forest and forest products research each year.

Presenting information on the latest research findings on topics of current interest such as the Southern pine beetle problem is the objective of the Twelfth Forestry Forum.

The final session of the Forum will be a debate on private versus public application of forestry to non-industrial lands.

New Types Of Chewing Gum

Chewing gum containing sugar tastes great - ask any kid, but it can also cause tooth decay - ask any kid's mother.

New types of sugarless gum are definitely healthier for a child's teeth, but children don't always choose the things that are best for them. So what compromise can there be between an habitual chicle-chewer and his mom?

Two scientists at the University of Alabama - Birmingham (UAB) School of Dentistry may have the answer. Research by Dr. Sidney Finn and Dr. Homer Jamison has developed a third type of chewing gum that contains natural sugar and all its flavor, but doesn't promote dental cavities.

The secret is an ingredient known as dicalcium phosphate dihydrate (DCPD). A 7.5% concentration of DCPD in gum containing refined sugar has been shown to effectively nullify its decay potential without affecting that juicy fruit flavor.

In a three year test involving 600 children at a state institution, the DCPD gum was administered under supervision for comparison with unfortified sugar gum and sugarless gum. Each child brushed his teeth before breakfast and chewed

Industry Backs Extension Of Stabilization Measure

The president of the National Association of Manufacturers, E. Douglas Kenna, has testified before the Senate Banking Committee that the NAM sees Phase III, extending the Economic Stabilization Act for one year, as "the safest road to the end of controls."

Phase III of controls has to be more than jawboning, he said, and requires legislative authority or reserve mandatory powers to prevent inflation with the principles of free enterprise, free markets and a free society," he said.

The NAM president said that Phase III is not an open door to wage and price increases. He also warned that Phase III will have a useful, temporary and limited role to perform during the coming year, but warned that it cannot be permanent or long-lasting because it will eventually create economic distortions and conflicts.

The NAM has traditionally opposed all controls on wages and prices as "incompatible with the principles of free enterprise, free markets and a free society," he said.

The NAM president said that Phase III is not an open door to wage and price increases. He also warned that Phase III will have a useful, temporary and limited role to perform during the coming year, but warned that it cannot be permanent or long-lasting because it will eventually create economic distortions and conflicts.

What is more original than a cool, cold salad in hot weather? Well, salad with every time. And what about weight control? Salads can make a real contribution to calorie avoidance and at the same time give you handsome nourishment that you need.

So let's talk today about salads. A worthy salad if it is to really be the main course of the meal should include meat, poultry, or fish. This gets into some preparation, but not necessarily, because so many things come canned, all prepared. Like tuna, or canned salmon, or various meats, especially the luncheon slice variety which can be easily converted to bite-size bits. Don't forget artichokes, anchovy or, for that matter, chunks of chicken, turkey, ham, or marinated beef, or slices of hard-cooked eggs.

Chunk of Cheese

Chunks of cheese, which also are excellent sources of protein, and the part your salad or milk might play in your salad dressing, take care of getting the milk and milk products group into your salad.

And finally, since we now have fruits and vegetables, the meat group, and the milk group, we need breads and cereals. There are two ways: Stir in a lot of those delicious, often garlic-washed croutons and/or sprinkle your salad with wheat germ. And voilà! Thank heaven, for little girls — little girls who make such a salad, that is.
